Bruce Hauxwell

Bruce has a passion for trees and has been in the industry since 2008. He joined Bartlett Tree Experts in 2010.

As an Arboricultural Consultant, Bruce works closely with clients to understand their unique requirements regarding their trees and develops tailored solutions to address their concerns. Whether it's large tree population surveys, detailed individual tree assessments, or development site/planning reports, he provides safe and effective arboricultural advice and services that are both environmentally responsible and based on best current practice. In addition to his technical expertise, Bruce has excellent communication skills and takes the time to explain trees and their care in a clear and concise manner. He is committed to building lasting relationships with his clients and ensuring their satisfaction with every project.

When he's not working with trees, Bruce enjoys spending time with his wife and daughter at their home near Chelmsford and exploring the beautiful countryside of the UK by motorcycle.
